

CHEAPER COAL ITS PROMISED BY FUEL HEAD

Fifty-Cent Cut Depends on Condition of Weather and Railroads.

Reduction in the price of coal to the consumer in Washington will be made by the District Fuel Administrator.

The amount probably will be not less than 50 cents per ton.

Just how soon the new scale of prices will be put in effect depends a great deal upon the weather and receipts of coal in the city.

The action was taken in an order issued by the District Fuel Administrator yesterday calling upon dealers to submit costs of doing business. The order follows:

Text of Order.
"The District of Columbia Fuel Administrator has issued a call to the coal merchants for statements showing the cost of doing business as of February 1, 1918.

"Changes, if any, in the present gross margin of $2.50 will be based on these statements."

February 15 will be made the date by which reports of all dealers must be turned in. Reports will be made upon forms provided by the United States Fuel Administration, in use throughout the country.

Should coal receipts remain light and cold weather with snow again visit the District, seriously detracting from the efficiency of dealers' facilities for handling coal, the present margin may be allowed to stand until the beginning of the new coal year, April 1.

Yesterday 2,665 tons of anthracite and 2,199 tons of bituminous arrived here. The Fuel Administrator and Edward F. Callahan, recently acting Fuel Administrator, spent several hours in conference with officials of the national Fuel Administration, but final arrangements for the shipment here daily of an additional thousand tons of anthracite, bringing the total up to 3,000 tons per day for a period of 15 days, were not reached.

The War Department still refused to allow distribution in District homes of the 600 tons of anthracite in a barge lying off the Arsenal. The barge has been unanchored for several weeks, filled with coal, while thousands in the city were suffering acutely because of lack of heat.

3-Jushel Order Revoked.
The order limiting sales of coal to three bushels to each house was revoked yesterday and the old order, permitting a sale of two weeks' supply of coal to each home, went into force again.

Beginning April 1, a card system will be put into effect in the District and probably throughout the country at the same time. Under the plan every home in the city would be allotted a certain amount of coal. Purchases would be checked off upon the card. When the amount allowed is used no more can be obtained. The clearing house plan put in operation by local dealers also will be adopted by the United States Fuel Administration for use in all sections of the country.

Benjamin L. Woodruff has been appointed business manager of the District fuel administration office, it was announced yesterday.

Practically every home in the city had sufficient coal yesterday, administration officials said. The Emergency Bureau remained open all day and reported the lightest demand for coal for many weeks.

ASHLAR CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN MARSHALL

Vice President to Be Guest of Honor Tomorrow.

Vice President Marshall will be the guest of honor at the meeting of the Ashlar Club in the new Masonic Temple tomorrow night. He will share honors with Homer Rodeheaver, the musical leader and "inspiration of the Billy Sunday party," accompanied by "those master musical artists, Messrs. Mathews and Brewster."

The meeting of the club tomorrow night is the first since the change at the last meeting of the regular meeting night from the fourth to the second Saturday night in each month.

A large service flag, representing members of the club in the army and navy, probably will be unfurled at the meeting. Transportation difficulties held up completion of the flag which was to have been unfurled at the last meeting.

Identification tags of sterling silver will be presented to members now in the fighting service of Uncle Sam. It has been announced. On one side of the tag will be the insignia of the club, while on the other the name and address of the owner will be engraved.

Ladies' night, planned for tomorrow's meeting, has been postponed because of inability to obtain a sufficiently large hall. It may be given at the next meeting.

Seeks $5,777 Damages For Sale of Business

Alleging a pretension of friendship in order to gain his confidence and get possession of his business, Charles R. Ferris, one-time proprietor of a grocery store at Eleventh street and New York avenue northwest, filed suit yesterday in the District Supreme Court to recover $5,777 damages against Nicholas Fillah and his wife, Mary Fillah, the now proprietors of the business.

Ferris charges, through his attorney, L. B. Perkins, that in March, 1916, he left the city on a business trip to Lansing, Mich. He left his business, he states, in the care of his wife and Fillah and his wife, thinking that it would be perfectly safe.

Everything did not run smoothly in his absence, he stated, and he charged the Fillahs with mistreatment of his wife with such cruelty that she was compelled to sell the business at a loss and leave the premises.

Modern systems of irrigation will be developed in Bulgaria after the war. The improvements will result in an increased production of rice, which grows readily in that country. There will be an opportunity for the sale of American dredging and construction materials.

"Iceless Days" Last War Move; Shortage Of Ammonia Cause

Iceless days are expected to replace fuelless days. The United States Fuel Administration yesterday issued a statement that the manufacture of artificial ice may have to be curtailed next summer.

"There is danger of a serious shortage of ammonia, and steps are being taken to have as large a possible harvest of natural ice to meet any possible shortage of artificial ice," the Fuel Administrator declares.

BARUCH BOARD WILL REDUCE U. S. WAR BILLS

Officials Expect to Save Money by Adopting Allies' Plans.

The administration believes that it has found a solution for America's tangled war supply problem. From sources close to the White House it was learned that the nomination of Bernard M. Baruch as head of the War Industries Board and the extension of the board's power under the Overman bill to the point where it will become a virtual ministry of munitions, is counted on to silence critics who insist that the war machine has broken down.

The plan was put forward by friends of the administration as the utilization of the powers of a man who cut profiteering out of war sales to our allies here and saved our associates in the war billions of dollars.

Before America entered the war and before the allied purchasing commission was formed with Mr. Baruch at the head, showed American business men reaped a harvest of profits on commissions and subcommissions in the placing of contracts for the hard-pressed belligerent nations. With the centralization of this expenditure in the hands of Mr. Baruch a new policy was adopted. While a fair profit was allowed to the men who made the munitions, the brokers and fly-by-nights who had previously reaped commissions were eliminated. Contracts with them were ruthlessly shattered.

The administration hopes to apply the same plan to the problem of supply for the army, navy and Shipping Board. It feels that all of the criticism against our war preparations that has been brought out in Congress and elsewhere reduces itself to the failure of such unofficial bodies as the purchasing committee of the Council of National Defense properly to co-ordinate the needs of the buying departments and the resources from which they were to be supplied.

The allied missions here are pleased with the Baruch commission's work. The experience of the Italians was mentioned here last night as an example. Since Gen. Tozzi and Mr. Baruch started passing on contracts scores of millions have been saved to Italy. In one contract alone $1,200,000 of "velvet" was shaved off. In another series of contracts $20,000,000 was saved.

SOLDIER WITH AX HOLDS FIVE MEN AT BAY

George Kalisko Runs
Amuck; Flees Camp;
Captured by Police.

Crazed by fear of court-martial and death, George Kalisko, private, Company D, 318th Regiment, fled from Camp Meade last Sunday night and was captured yesterday after a hard struggle by camp police while holding five men at bay with an ax.

Kalisko, while at dinner at the farmhouse, suddenly became suspicious of his hosts and, grabbing an ax, made an attack upon them. The five men and a woman who were at dinner with him made their escape and barricaded themselves in a nearby room in front of which Kalisko walked to and fro swinging his ax.

A woman member of the household, who seemed to have an influence over Kalisko and who was able to pacify him at the time when he seemed most dangerous, was able to slip from the house and send word to the camp for the military police. A detachment hastened to the farmhouse and after maneuvering about Kalisko managed to arrest him. In their efforts to capture him they tried to disarm the soldier, but Kalisko evaded the larist and made a dash for the police. Two of the men managed to side-step him and pounce upon him. Though Kalisko struggled violently they subdued him. They then reassured him that everything would be all right and that he would be well treated at the camp.

One of His Feet Frozen.
An examination of Kalisko at the Clokey farm showed that one of his feet was frozen and that his clothes were badly torn and he was in poor physical condition. He was taken to the base hospital, where he is now under treatment. It seems that Kalisko, after fleeing into the woods, took off one of his shoes when his foot began to pain him and wandered around in the snow in that way.

Kalisko, who comes from Williams-town, Pa., a section which is inhabited chiefly by foreign-born citizens did not, it seems, grasp fully the American spirit and mistook the joking remarks made by comrades, that if he didn't behave himself he would be shot, as the truth. It is said he believed implicitly that he would be punished severely for the most trivial offenses or for acts which were not offenses at all. Some time ago, it is said, he got it into his head that he had committed a minor offense and that he would be shot for it. Not much attention was paid by the men to this, though it is said one or two of them joked with him about it.

When he reached the Clokey farm Tuesday night Kalisko was given something to eat. He talked the whole time about the intention of the Camp Meade authorities to shoot him. People at the farm house tried to convince him that his fears were groundless, but he wouldn't believe them. He turned over some money to one of the persons in the house to send to his brothers in Williams-town.

In the course of the conversation, one of the men suggested that he go back to camp. Suspecting treachery, Kalisko grabbed an ax and started after the men, who barricaded themselves in a room.

BAKER THANKS VETERANS FOR PART IN WAR

Secretary Is Chief Speaker at Annual Banquet of Grand Army.

Reminiscences were foregone by Grand Army men last night at their annual reception and banquet in honor of Orlando A. Somers, War-scarred veteran, who love on such occasions to roam in Memory Land, steered themselves to a new vigor last night at the New Ebbitt, as they listened to Secretary of War Baker's talk about the war of 1917-18.

"Men of the Grand Army," Secretary Baker said, "I want to thank you for the great part you are playing in this war. Our boys going to France are inspired by your splendid spirit. They are buoyed to higher heights of determination because of the glowing example you, their ancestors, have set."

Immediately after his address Secretary Baker gave a toast to the President.

"There is no better definition of war than that accredited to Sherman," declared Orlando A. Somers, commander-in-chief, in his address to his comrades.

Commander-in-chief Somers reminded the veterans of the admirable aid they are giving the government by lending to it their sons and grandsons and by teaching practical lessons of patriotism at every opportunity.

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, and Representative Ernest Lundeen, of Minnesota, talked briefly.

Henry M. Rose, Assistant Secretary of the Senate, made an interesting address in which he painted the Grand Army men as the saviors of the present day from whom the youth of the country should not be backward about securing sound advice.

Speeches were interspersed by old war songs which were led by E. Albert Long, Past Department Commander. R. F. Bingham was chairman of the banquet committee.

ADDOO NOW PLANS MOTOR TRUCK SERVICE

Seeks Relief from Freight Jam in Largest Cities.

Pressure upon the railroads administration by merchants and bankers in behalf of merchants promises to result in the adoption by Director General McAdoo of a system of motor truck car-to-store deliveries.

Relief will be given at once to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, Reports from James S. Harlan, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and A. H. Smith, eastern regional director, are expected by Director General McAdoo by laying down a scheme of automobile delivery as one of the swiftest methods of relieving the freight jam.

In general the method provides for operation by the government of a large system of motor trucks, which will take stuff from the freight cars and deliver to wholesalers and retailers with the one handling.

Representations have been made that the freight congestion is already causing great losses to seasonal manufacturers and that if they are unable to move their product soon after it reaches destination, it will mean the loss of a year's time.
